

SMALL WARNS WILLIAMSON CO. IT MUST BE GOOD

FULL TOLL OF BIG BLAST MAY NOT BE KNOWN

Officers Unwilling to Place Definite Figure on Deaths

Dover, N. J., July 14.—(AP)—Indications today were the exact number of victims of the explosion that destroyed the naval ammunition depot at Lake Denmark, wrecked the Pleanity Arsenal and damaged a dozen New Jersey towns, probably would never be known.

Even the lightning bolt that set off the $75,000,000 explosion probably never will gain official recognition, as the only men who saw it close at hand were picked up dead near the building that was struck, or have vanished.

The list of missing has varied from hour to hour and Brig. Gen. Drum in charge of policing the area, has not at any time been willing to make any positive statement as to the number. All records at the arsenal were verified. As late as yesterday, three marines who had not been listed as missing made their appearance in a dazed condition and were unable to give a clear account of what had happened to them.

Death Roll Stands at 21

The death roll stood at 21 today and wet ground and ruins soaked by a heavy rain during the night made for safety as marines continued searching for additional bodies. The latest unofficial estimates place property damage as high as $65,000,000 for the Lake Denmark naval arsenal, $5,000,000 for the Pleanity army arsenal and $5,000,000 for civilians.

Four towns were practically devastated. In Mount Hope 107 company-owned miners' cottages were wholly or partly destroyed. Wharton, Rockaway and Hibernia were the three other towns that suffered the greatest damage. Smashed plate glass, plaster and debris were strewn through the streets of Dover, Milton, Luxembourg, and Ironia.

Claims Up to Congress

About $400,000 of the estimated civilian damage consists of claims for injuries to 300 persons. These claims will have to be considered by congress as the army and navy are not authorized to pay them and they cannot be taken to court.

Estimates of loss in the Pleanity army arsenal, adjoining the naval depot, were based on the assumption that none of the army's stored ammunition had been destroyed. Vast stores of ammunition remained intact in the naval arsenal today.

Jagged holes 30 feet deep and 100 feet across in solid rock mark the sites of two naval storehouses that blew up first. Officers' houses and barracks like crushed flat as if they had been made of cards.

Must Be Rebuilt

Although every officer who viewed the wreckage felt there was no possibility of reconstruction short of rebuilding, ordinance experts have been ordered from Washington to survey the damage and formulate a policy for the future.

Nearly 1,000 refugees were back in their homes today, after three days in public buildings or homes thrown open to them in nearby towns.

They were brought back in motor vans, trucks and privately owned automobiles yesterday. After General Drum decided it was safe. Many of them had been outfitted by the Red Cross with new clothing.

ASSEMBLY WILL OPEN SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 31; STRONGEST PROGRAM IN YEARS IS PLEDGED

The thirty-ninth annual session of the Rock River Assembly to be held in this city, will open Saturday evening, July 31, with an array of talent stronger and more varied than any presented Assembly patrons in the last number of years. Programs for the session are ready for distribution and may be procured at Giesenhelm's, Trien's and other business places of the city.

A number of patrons last year subscribed for season tickets, thereby getting a slight reduction, and the Women's Missionary Society of St. Paul's Lutheran church will deliver these tickets, requesting all to be prepared to settle for them and thus make second calls unnecessary. But two valid reasons for release from contract or subscription, announced last year, are acceptable—death or removal from Dixon and vicinity.

ONE BALLOON IN ELKS RACE WAS FORCED TO LAND

Other Three Believed to Still Be in Air at Noon.

Chicago, July 14.—(AP)—The balloon Greater St. Louis, piloted by Captain H. E. Honeywell and his daughter Edna, was forced down at 4:30 a. m. today at Thompsonville, Ill. Honeywell reported today to National Aeronautic Association officials here. The other three balloons in the national race which began here last night have not been heard from officially.

Two reports told of the sighting of balloons, one from Herrin, Ill., at 7:15 a. m., and another from near Cairo, Ill., at 9:30 a. m. The numbers of the craft were not distinguishable and both reports may have been of the same balloon.

Officials of the National Aeronautic Association who started the ships on their voyage at 6 o'clock last night, deemed it likely that all three remaining bags were close together.

A leaking gas bag forced him to descend, Honeywell said. The landing was made without injury. A leak in the intake to the bag caused the veteran difficulty last night in getting away and the gas escaped steadily after the take-off, he reported.

Thompsonville is in Franklin County, about 70 miles west of Evansville, Ind.

Additional news of the balloons brought word that one was sighted above Mount Vernon at 5:30 a. m., flying almost due south and that residents of Benton, Ill., saw one of the bags an hour later. The numbers were not visible from the ground, but officials were strengthened in their belief that all the craft were bunched.

SLAYER, CAUGHT AFTER 9 MONTHS, TELLS OF ESCAPE

Jos. Stimas at Last in Peoria Jail After Double Slaying

Joseph Stimas, indicted for a double murder by the Marshall county grand jury, fugitive from justice for nine months, slept in his own home, eight days after the alleged murder, according to his own story. Stimas was arrested Sunday at Evans-ton. He is now in Peoria county jail, awaiting trial when he will face a circuit court jury at Lacon, in September.

Lacon county's sheriff and the night police chief of Toluen were shot to death by Stimas, according to police and after his arrest he quietly told the story of his escape.

He hid in the vicinity of Toluen for eight days after the crime and on the eighth night went back to his home and slept peacefully many hours while for miles around bloodhounds were in full cry after him and an airplane was used in an effort to capture him. He told his story in German and it was translated into English for newspapermen.

Stimas left his home, the ninth night after the shooting and walked to Hennepin, where he boarded a train for Chicago and later went to Evanston. He went to Minneapolis and while there was in a hospital being treated for a gunshot wound which was inflicted in the alleged gun battle with the police officers. Recovering sufficiently to be discharged he returned to Illinois, apparently having no fear of arrest. He came back early this year, according to his story, found work as a gardener on one of the vast estates in the Illinois city, tend-

MASTER GOLFER OF WORLD TELLS HOW HE PLAYS, WHERE HE GOT HIS STYLE, WHAT HE ATTRIBUTES HIS GREAT SUCCESS TO

Bobbie Jones, Open Champion of America and Great Britain, Gives Exclusive Story of His Game to Associated Press

O. R. KEELER, GOLF WRITER FOR THE ATLANTA JOURNAL AND KNOWN AS 'BOBBY JONES' BOSWELL, OBTAINED FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS THE FOLLOWING INTERVIEW WITH THE WORLD'S GOLF CHAMPION WHICH IS THE ONLY INTERVIEW WHICH JONES SAYS HE HAS EVER GIVEN OUT OR PROBABLY EVER WILL GIVE OUT. THE INTERVIEW WAS OBTAINED IN RESPONSE TO A REQUEST FROM THE GENERAL MANAGER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS TO JOHN S. COHEN, EDITOR OF THE ATLANTA JOURNAL, WHO WAS ASKED THAT JONES BE QUOTED FROM THE POINT OF VIEW OF A MASTER STYLIST ON HOW TO PLAY THE GAME. THE INTERVIEW IS COPYRIGHTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Atlanta, Ga., July 14.—(AP)—Bobbie Jones, open golf champion of America and Great Britain and amateur champion of America, all at the same time, is a difficult boy to interview. But that is not at all because he is the first official golfing champion in the world. It is because he is one of the most modest boys in the world. It required a good deal of convincing to gain his first and very likely his last formal interview on golf. I told him the greatest of press associations believed that many people wanted to hear from him in his own words how he played golf—the "master stylist"—and how he won championships. Bobby at last blushed and gave in. "All right," he said. "Where do we start?"

"Where you started golf, I suggested. "How did you get your game?"

Tells of His Luck

"Luck," he answered, succinctly. "The biggest piece of golfing luck I ever had was when the Atlanta Athletic Club got Stewart Maiden for its professional. I was five years old then and lived opposite the gate of the East Lake Golf Course. Next year Dad moved our family into a little cottage on the club property alongside what is now the first fairway. I had taken up golf in a small way with a sawed off stick one of the East Lake players had given me. Stewart never gave me any lessons. I just followed him around and watched him. I wanted to play and he was the best player and I imitated his style, like a monkey I suppose. The luck was in the fact that Stewart had the finest and soundest style I have ever seen. Naturally, I did not know this at the time. But I grew up swinging like him. In the last ten years I've changed in some ways. My build is not like Stewart's you know."

Called "Fat," Blushed

"Never mind that. I'm not as fat as I was when I got off the Aquatania ten days ago. I lost 12 pounds those three days at Scioto. And I'm not fat anyhow. As I was saying, I don't swing just like Stewart today, but that was the foundation and I can go out on a course anytime and swing exactly like him. He has a sound and orthodox style."

"In golf I should say it was a style which would suit fundamentally any player unless he was anatomically freakish. There is nothing odd or unusual about Stewart's methods."

"And yours?"

"Well, at times my methods seem unusually hard to get along with. Maybe I haven't helped the original style by changing it. Anyway I can't help believing that is the best way to acquire a sound game—imitation of a good player in childhood. If you don't get started in childhood, take some lessons. A good professional can work out a style that will suit you, if you will do what he says."

The subject of style characteristics regarded as the class of fashion and the mold of form in golf. "Bobby did not want to talk about this phase. I insisted."

Talks of His Style

"Well, judging by the pictures I see of myself," he admitted, "I keep my feet closer together in the full shots than almost anybody else in the world and keep my hands lower and closer to my knickers in addressing the ball. My arms do not seem to get far away from my body in the back swing and I suppose this is what they mean in saying my style is compact. My stance is very slightly open for all shots except the putt; that is, the left foot is a bit farther back from the line of shot than the right. I do not regard this as important. Sometimes I play shots with my toes level and I know fine players who use an open stance—the toes level—and still others with a closed stance, the right foot being drawn back. The main point in my stance, as I understand it, is to play the ball opposite the left heel in all normal full wood shots and most normal full iron shots for distance. Two or three years ago I was getting into a lot of trouble, pulling and smothering by carelessly letting the ball stray toward the line of the right heel. I play many pitch shots and irons when a low flight with much back spin is needed, about between my feet or even toward the line of the right heel. But to get a normal, well behaved shot with a full swing, the ball, for me, is opposite the left heel. Mind you, I don't say that is right for everybody. But it certainly is Stewart's method for practically all shots and he even plays the ball as far ahead as opposite this left instep. I think the idea is to keep the weight well back of the stroke. When it gets in front anything can happen and usually does."

"I never think about my hands. The regular overlapping or Vardon grip seems to take care of that phase pretty well. I think that grip is best, if your hands are reasonably big and strong. The little finger of the right hand overlaps the forefinger of the left, the left thumb being buried under the right palm; a very compact grip which tends to keep the hands from working against each other save in the proper way. The club is held strictly in the fingers rather than delicately. Don't squeeze it. I can spoil a shot anytime by tightening my grip consequent. I use the same grip for every shot down to the putt, where I reverse it. For me the putt is essentially a right hand stroke and I put all the right hand on the shaft and overlap the right little finger with the left forefinger. I take the putter back with the left hand and and stroke the ball with the right. It has worked very well at times as at Merion and Oakland and not so well on this last trip. I putted like an old woman, that last round in the British open. Thirty nine putts—it was terrible."

OREGON PEOPLE CROWD POLLS IN SCHOOL ELECTION

Bitter Fight Over Proposed Community High School is Waged

(Telegraph Special Service)

Oregon, July 14.—Conflicting opinions on Oregon's high school situation reached a crest today when the polls opened at 8 o'clock for the special election on the proposition of organizing a community high school district, and there is none who will hazard a guess as to how the election will go, with farmers apparently arrayed against the townspeople.

The present district, No. 88 which has so deep in debt and the problem of financing the school so hopeless that the board of education canceled all teachers' contracts recently, determined to abandon the high school unless a larger district can be established.

The proposed community high school district will include Oregon township and portions of Pine Rock, Rockvale, Marlon, Rockvale township.

Property valuation of the present district is $1,000,000 and the 2 percent available for school purposes makes the revenue $20,000. Establishment of the community district would double this income, it is said.

$13,000 Debt

The present district is now $13,000 in debt with $12,000 of making up the deficit and bankers have refused further credit. At the same time $7,200 in the building fund, which under the law can be used for no other purpose, is now being spent in rehabilitating the school plumbing system.

If the proposed district is approved another election to select five board members will be held.

If the measure fails this community of 2,500 people will be without a high school and the district will be assessed a non-high school tax which goes to the surrounding districts that maintain high schools and where those who seek more than an eighth grade education will have to enroll.

CITY MAY COMPEL HEAVY AUTO TRUCKS TO USE SIDE STREETS IN TRAVELING THROUGH DIXON

Such Regulation is Discussed at Meeting of City Council

The regular weekly session of the city council last evening was brief. The application of Ellen E. Eastman to conduct a soft drink parlor at 923 West First street was granted. A communication addressed to the city council notifying that body that the Interstate Trucking Company, operating between Chicago and Rock Island through Dixon, had been granted a certificate of convenience and necessity was read but no action was taken.

Members of the council voiced objection to the operation of the heavily loaded trucks through the streets of Dixon and it was suggested the side streets be laid out for the handling of this heavy traffic through the city. No formal action was taken, however.

To Advertise Paving

The board of local improvements voted to advertise for bids under local improvement ordinance, No. 226 and 227, which provides for the paving with cement of Artesian Place from River to Third streets and on East First street from Dement avenue east about 300 feet.

Commissioner William V. Slothover reported to the council the removal of the abandoned switch track on River street, east of Galena avenue, which has not been in use for years. Almost a year ago the Northwestern was requested to remove the track that would be a hindrance to the parking space on River street and the city officials at one time threatened to tear up the tracks at night if some action was not taken.

The commissioner also reported to the council the beginning of work by Contractors Stephan & Heagy on the paving of the parking space east of the bridge with cement.

NEW TRAFFIC REGULATIONS IN "LOOP" EXPLAINED FOR PUBLIC BY COMMISSIONER C. E. MILLER

Stop-and-Go Signals on Busiest Corners on 60 Days Trial

The activity of electricians installing traffic light systems on First and Second streets on Galena avenue, which is traversed by three state highways, has brought about a great deal of comment, favorable and otherwise, to the handling of traffic on this particular thoroughfare. Commissioner Charles E. Miller today explained the plan which has been adopted on both these corners which may be said to be the busiest in the city.

Instead of the suspended traffic flasher type of light, a system of four signals will direct traffic on both of these corners. Lights fastened to steel posts about ten feet above the sidewalk level on each of the four corners are being installed. The flashers will be timed allowing 40 seconds for north and south traffic and 20 seconds for east and west traffic, giving preference to the cars using the state highways, routes 2, 6 and 26. There will be a slight change in the system of installation over that of other cities in this immediate locality. The posts directing traffic will be located on the opposite side of the street from which the car is approaching, which is intended to benefit the vision of the driver.

On Sixty Day Trial

The commissioner stated that this system was being installed on a 60 day trial without expense to the city. The firm from which the other electric flashers in the city were purchased has agreed to install the system for that period on trial, it being the latest type of electrically controlled traffic signal developed.

In all four systems of electric flasher traffic signals will be installed by the city this year, Commissioner Miller announced. The first of these was of the pole type at Galena avenue and Everett street on the north side. A duplicate of this type will also be installed very shortly at the intersection of Galena avenue and Seventh street, and the two systems of four flashers each in the downtown district.

The bodies were so badly burned that identification was impossible. Sixteen guests and seven employees of the hotel have not been accounted for.

The fire started from an unknown cause and spread with great rapidity, many of the guests being forced to jump from the windows. The hotel was of frame construction and three stories high.

Three Bushels of Spuds Your Share for a Year

Chicago, July 14.—(AP)—Everybody will have to get along on less than three bushels of potatoes this year. Warnings by agricultural authorities against excessive planting of potatoes seems to have been effective.

Reports today from the government bureau of agricultural economics put the indicated production of potatoes in the United States this season at 62,000,000 bushels below the five year average. Figuring the population at 117,136,000, the average per capita amount of potatoes likely to be available is 2.85 bushels.

DIXONITE IS HELD TO WHITESIDE CO. GRAND JURY TODAY

H. B. Lawson Accused of Driving Away From Auto Accident

H. B. Lawson of this city was held to the October term of the Whiteside county grand jury this morning on a charge of driving away from an accident. His bonds were fixed at $1500 which he was attempting to secure to prevent being sent to the county jail at Morrison.

Lawson, driving a Chalmers coach and with John "Red" Mahar of this city, as a passenger, was arrested here last evening after a chase by State Motorcycle Officer Harold Lenox and Officer Richard Pomeroy when Sterling police requested that he be taken in custody. Other Dixon police were stationed west of the city on the Lincoln Highway awaiting the arrival of the machine.

Lawson is charged with having crashed into a Ford roadster driven by John B. Hall, superintendent of the L. E. Meyers Construction Company, who are building the new gas plant at Sterling, the scene of the alleged accident being on Avenue A north of Third street in Sterling at about 4:30 yesterday afternoon. Hall sustained a fractured collar bone, the small finger on his left hand was fractured and his right hand injured. He also sustained bruises about the body. Another employee of the construction company sustained slight wounds.

Said He Failed to Stop

After the crash Lawson is alleged to have refused to give his name and to have driven away from the scene without ascertaining the extent of Hall's injuries. Hall, however, secured the license numbers as the car sped away, and reported these to Sterling police, who consulted the state license records, which showed the license to be issued for a Chevrolet car and in Lawson's name.

At Sterling it was reported that there was a strong odor of liquor on the breath of both occupants of the Dixon car. After the machine was stopped on the north side, both Lawson and Mahar were taken to the police station and the former was later turned over to Chief of Police John Haglock of Sterling, who took him back to that city. A warrant charging assault and battery was in the hands of the officers for Mahar and he was taken to the county jail on this charge.

Lawson is said to have stated that he knew nothing of the accident, and told local officers that a friend had been using his car during the afternoon. This morning, at his preliminary hearing in Sterling, Lawson did not testify but is said to have not denied the crash. The car in question is being held at the police station here.

MARTIAL LAW PENALTY FOR ANY DISORDER

Orders Troops be Withdrawn From Herrin; Makes Appeal

Springfield, Ill., July 14.—(AP)—Ordering troops withdrawn from Herrin today, Governor Len Small addressed a letter to citizens of Williamson county, advising them to keep the peace or be prepared for martial law. "For the last three months," the Governor's letter read, "troops have been continuously stationed in your county. The expense of maintaining these troops has been borne by all of the people of the state and paid from appropriations made by the legislature, and has amounted to more than two hundred thousand dollars."

Must Not Continue

"This condition cannot and must not continue. I appeal to the law abiding citizens of Williamson county and to the elected officials of the county to maintain order and enforce the law. If they fail to do this and it again becomes necessary to send troops into Williamson county, I feel that it will be my duty to comply with requests and declare martial law in Williamson county, suspending civil authorities in the municipalities and the county."

"I wish to make it clear, much as I regret the necessity to do so, that if I am compelled to, troops will return with full authority to govern the county and the municipalities where civil government has failed."

The governor's letter was captioned "To the People of Williamson County" and opened with the statement that "on several occasions during the last four years, it has been necessary to use the Illinois National Guard in Williamson county to suppress lawlessness, riot and murder."

It was sent newspapers at Marlon, Johnson City and Herrin in Williamson county, with the request from the governor that it be printed "as an item of news."

Grand Detour News

GRAND DETOUR—Our hotels are busy places this summer and both serve fine meals.

The Guyn brothers are decorated in the town hall.

The majority of our homes are electric lighted. We folks sure appreciate the lights.

Grandma Davis is with her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Reese for the summer. Mrs. Hazel Cashion is with her as nurse.

A stray collie dog is at the Veith home. A fine dog, he is rather gray on the back.

The little stone church was the scene of joyousness last Sunday afternoon. The members of the Dixon and Rockford as well as other Episcopal churches met for services in the afternoon and this was followed by a picnic supper.

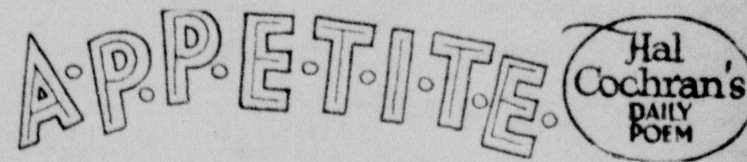

Dr. James Parkhurst is under the care of a nurse.

The two artists, Craft and Noff, are sure painting fine pictures of our people and scenes. Mr. Craft and family are home for a while but will be with us soon again. Mr. Noff is living here this summer.

Richard Weyant is not in his grandfather's store now. He is driving a truck for Helers bakery.

Misses Esther Foxley of Dixon, and Nellie Purteman of Oregon spent the Fourth with the Floyd Ruggles family in Chicago. They report a good time.

Meanwhile Italy is discussing

When mother calls the kiddies in, as supper's on the table, she always likes to see them eat as much as they are able. She's taken lots of pains, of course, and done the best she could to cook the sort of food she knows will do the youngsters good.

They're called, perhaps, a dozen times, till mother has to say, "You'll have to come to supper, or you can't go out to play." They clamor in, eventually, and wash their faces and hands. The rumpus that's created any mother understands.

They don't like mashed potatoes, 'cause they'd rather have them fried. They nibble on a bit of meat, then push the dish aside. They simply can't eat spinach, soaked in vinegar, they'll say. Just playin' with their supper—while they're thinkin' of their play.

There's no real use in arguin'. Mom kids won't eat, they won't. Mom cooks the things she thinks they'll like, and then finds out they don't. The everlasting answer to why appetites go wrong with little folk is just that they've been piecing all day long.

Three Dictatorships Planned in Europe

Brussels, July 14—(AP)—Three virtual dictatorships loom in Europe as a direct outcome of the financial crisis.

The Belgian chamber of deputies last night adopted on first reading a bill which would give King Albert full powers to issue such decrees as he may see fit for stabilizing the exchange.

The French minister of finance, M. Caillaux, will submit a similar bill to the finance committee of the French chamber Friday.

Meanwhile Italy is discussing whether Premier Mussolini and his cabinet should be made responsible to the King and not to parliament, thus vesting them with extreme authority to deal with the situation.

SLEEP—

Withdraw thee, soul, from strife.

Enter thine unseen bark.

And sail across the dark.

The silent sea of life.

Leave Care and Grief, feared now no more.

To wave and beckon from the shore.

Thy tenement is bare.

Shut are the burning eyes.

Ears deaf against surprise.

Lips in a posture fair.

The body sleeps, unheeding thee.

And thou, my sailing soul, art free.

Rouse not to choose thy way:

To make it long or short.

Or seek some golden port.

In haste, ere springs the day.

Desire is naught, and effort vain:

Here he who seeks shall ne'er attain.

Dream-winged, thy boat may drift:

Where lands lie warm in light;

Or sail, with silent flight,

Oblivion cleaving swift.

Still, dusk or dawning, art thou blest.

O Fortune's darling, dowered with rest!

HOUSEHOLD Suggestions

BY SISTER MARY.

BREAKFAST—Raspberries, cereal, thin cream, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Scalloped spinach, whole wheat bread, ginger bread, milk, tea.

DINNER—Salisbury steak with baked bananas, buttered rice, creamed green beans, jellied cabbage, huckleberry roly-poly, rye bread, milk, coffee.

If shredded cabbage is added to a tart lemon jelly and the mixture placed in the ice-box to chill and become firm a simple delicious salad is the result. You can use your favorite brand of prepared jelly or gelatin and add lemon juice to suit your taste. To make the salad a bit more festive, coarsely chopped nuts can be sprinkled over just before serving. Nuts lose their crispness if allowed to stand in a gelatin mixture.

Scalloped Spinach.

Two cups chopped cooked spinach, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 3 hard cooked eggs, 1 cup finely chopped cooked ham, 1 cup white sauce, tablespoons buttered crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter.

Season spinach with salt, pepper and butter. Put half of it into a well buttered baking dish. Cover with a layer of ham. Pour over white sauce and add eggs cut in thin slices. Cover with remaining spinach. Sprinkle with grated cheese and cover with buttered crumbs. Put into a hot oven to brown the crumbs and thoroughly heat the mixture.

DISCUSS CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Des Moines, Iowa, July 14.—(AP)—The proposed federal child labor amendment, discussion of which has already brought charges of steamroller tactics to dominate legislatures issues today will be laid before the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, in session here.

Discussion of the amendment yesterday voiced an "insurgent" group which voiced firm opposition to the labor regulation as well as special legislation for women.

As a result the propositions will be considered at a general session today without recommendations either for or against them.

Two other legislative issues are to be considered today, the Reed-Curtis education bill and the proposed federal employment bureaus.

Relief Corps Held Interesting Meeting

Dixon Relief Corps No. 218 Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic held its regular meeting Monday evening, July 12th, in Grand Army hall. The chairman of relief reported many calls made on the sick and the splendid sewing day held at the home of Mrs. Spencer, when many carpet rugs were sewed and chair cushions made. The hostess served a most delicious and bountiful chicken dinner at the noon hour.

A short talk by Comrade Coltrin closed an interesting meeting.

IOWA PRIMARY COSTS.

Arthur Evans, staff correspondent for the Chicago Tribune, writes from Iowa that reports of candidates concerning expenditures are considered jokes. They are almost everywhere.

Soon after the Iowa primary there was a statement made that the campaign of Brookhart had not cost him a cent. That seems to have been a personal matter, as the statement of his headquarters was that there was expended $1924.

Evans reports that a special edition of Labor, a publication issued at Washington mainly in interest of railway labor, was circulated extensively in Iowa. The number of copies is estimated at 70,000. Senators in Washington have said that a courtesy is extended at a cost of about $30,000 to somebody. It is reported further by Mr. Evans that railway labor organizations raised a fund for Brookhart, the size of which is unknown. It came to public notice, because the use of the frank was abused, that the franking privilege of Senator Reed of Pennsylvania had been used in Iowa for the benefit of Brookhart. That did not cost Brookhart anything, because the government paid it.

Senator Brookhart may be able to serve the railway laborers by getting higher wages for them without raising freight rates, and he may be able to aid the farmers by obtaining lower freight costs without reducing labor, but he has not been able to do it yet. Of course he has been prevented by senators representing the "interests."

Whatever the fact may be as to that, the statements of campaign expenses as generally made are jokes, as Mr. Evans say the Iowans admit. They are subsidiary jokes of the biggest joke of them all, the opening of the door to the poor man to run for office by providing primary elections.

There are a few fundamental facts to be considered in connection with a campaign. One is that it costs a large sum of money to carry on a statewide canvass for a primary. Another is that the sources of money are the government, the state, the interests, or the individual.

If a candidate is a member of either house of congress, the national government pays a large portion. If he has a state machine, the state pays a large portion. If there are interests that are expecting something, like the railway labor interests in Brookhart's case, and manufacturers in Pennsylvania, they contribute what they can. If there is nobody with interests to be served, the candidate must spend his own money. Persons who have access to government funds with which to carry on campaigns, are inclined to want to limit expenditures of the man who happens to have enough money to carry on a campaign for himself that will make things hot for them. They are against any such corruption of the electorate. In the case of many of the senators, they do not want their fair body contaminated by presence of such a person.

It make us wonder where we will finish as the senators go on, each measuring the standards of political morality by his own.

All of us are anxious for high morals in politics, but we have such queer ways of going at it to obtain them.

NEW YORK IS PURE.

A fresh young miss from the wild and woolly hinterlands of Connecticut came to New York the other day preparing to be shocked. She had heard that in Greenwich Village almost anything goes, and she wanted to see what "anything" was.

But it turned out that she was the shock herself, and an old-fashioned policeman was the one to be jolted. For, what do you suppose Miss Connecticut was doing as she came for an evening stroll down into Washington Square? She was carrying a lighted cigaret, that's what she was, and she didn't try to make any secret of it either, as she crossed the magisterial pathway of Patrolman Olsen.

"Say, you, drop that cigaret" was the voice that boomed out of the darkness.

Miss Connecticut didn't drop. A cop was only a cop after all, and how come? She asked what ordinance, please, she was breaking. She asked further, if it was criminal for a young lady to inhale a fag or two in this burg.

It wasn't "nice," was Patrolman Olsen's best comeback. The young lady demurred. What wasn't nice about it? The policeman began to gesture with his nightstick. The talk flew faster. Finally he, the majesty of the law, found himself out-talked in every sector.

"Loud and boisterous language," was his final verdict, so he arrested Miss Connecticut and her New York friend.

Moral: Don't go around on Patrolman Olsen's beat in Washington Square smoking cigarets at night unless you're a male.

There are too many afternoons in a week not to go swimming on one of them.

Where ignorance is folly, 'tis bliss to be wise.

Do correspondence school students call the mail man professor?

When a poor man gets married he knows it's just his winning ways.

Being cynical is enough to make any man a cynic.

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

DR. FLINT INTERVIEWS JUDY

"Now you, my dear," said Mamie, looking at me with something that I could not explain in her face, "you who only a few weeks ago had nothing to your name after your bag had been stolen, are talking of getting fifty thousand dollars from a man whom you hardly know as if it were perfectly easy."

"Good Lord, Judy, do you think you are a vamp? I think you have gone crazy over something you have seen at the movies."

"Do you know, Judy how frightened you were that night when you thought you were penniless and alone in this great city? I think I have never seen such bewildered agony on any face in all my life."

"You will never see it again on my face, Mamie," I told her. "I've learned a lot since that time. I always knew that I had magnetism and now I think I know how to use it."

"Have you learned how to separate a man from fifty thousand dollars of his money? You may find that a little different from asking for a box of candy," Mamie said with as much sarcasm as a girl of her temperament was capable of.

"That remains to be seen," I answered as I put on my hat to go to the store.

I was early, but I had a shrewd hunch that I would be asked to come to Dr. Flint's office and I wanted to get that over before I met either Mr. Robinson or some sharp reporter, who would be sure to dig up the fact that I was one of the last people to see poor Martha Cleaver alive.

Sure enough there was a cash girl at my locker and the moment I hung up my hat she said, "Miss Dean, Dr. Flint asked if you would come to his office."

"Certainly," I answered and followed her.

Doctor Flint met me with a very serious face as I opened the door. I could see that he was trying to smile but he made me feel that if he smiled very long his face would crack.

"Will you be seated, Miss Dean?" I sat down but I didn't say a word. That got the doctors goat at once, once or twice, the old hypocrite said most pompously, "I will not disguise from you Miss Dean that the Morton Department Store is placed in a most disagreeable position by the death of Miss Cleaver."

He stopped and waited for me to speak. "Yes," The word was as insolent as I could make it.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERNS

New York.—Colorful religious pageantry, breathing of other worlds and other times, blossoms in New York's East side at this season of the year. Splendid golden shrines from Italy appear suddenly, climbing the fronts of drab tenement buildings.

And this is a signal for a fiesta spirit to spread through the neighborhood. Overnight the block is hung with flags and the curbstones become lined with hucksters whose cares are piled with candies from foreign lands, old toys, fruits and nuts and other holiday goodies.

The pageants travel first to this district and to that; celebrating one saint and then another.

While the immediate celebrants are those of one religious faith, yet the children of all faiths and all nations seize upon the opportunity, as children will, to enjoy a holiday.

Bands are heard blaring in the streets, heading a procession that blends deep solemnity with buffonery. Just behind the band appears giant shrine carried on the shoulders of devout ones who urge offering to the church an saint.

For a moment the mongrel identity of the East side is lost behind the illusion of ancient ceremonials. Reflection from the gold enameled figures on the shrine cast a strange luster upon the dirt-blanketed fronts of cheap stores and tenements.

The garish signs announcing sales and bankruptcies seem suddenly out of place. The very figures, in their $18.90 store clothes, seem incongruous as they march along under their splendid durdee.

More and more the things of America come to play a part in these half solemn half merry fiestas.

Crepe paper left over from Christmas and Fourth of July, appears on stands. Confetti and serpentine are hawked from the pavements.

One thing at which I have always marvelled is the respect these fetes move get from the impish and impious street gamins.

These youngsters, of many creeds are first to jibe and prank on all other occasions, but now they become turned into a tractable and well behaved lot.

Upon the corners stand venerable old orthodox Jews in their skull caps smiling and nodding at the pagantry of an alien sect.

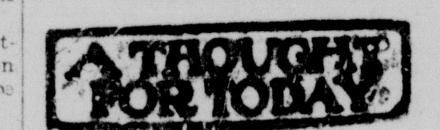

It is one of New York's most colorful panoramas.

Just now Mt. Carmel at the edge of the Bronx, is hung with blue and gold for St. Antonio.

Sashes of blue and gold hang from the belts of paraders and three times daily they march through the streets bearing their shrine with a great army of candle bearers in its wake.

Use "Quick Fire Coke" For Fuel Next Winter

It is a Clean Fuel

Almost perfect combustion with no dust or smoke and very few ashes. No soot in chimneys to burn and set fire to the home.

Firemen and Insurance companies insist that a large percentage of home-destroying fires are caused by soft coal soot from burning chimneys or sparks on the roof.

When people learn how clean, safe and economical "QUICK FIRE COKE" is, and how few times a day they have to fix the fire with it, they will never go back to coal for fuel.

The proper way to burn coke is simple and is told in an interesting booklet issued by the Indiana Coke & Gas Company, Terre Haute, makers of the famous "Quick Fire Coke". It is sent on request to any householder. Write for it today and learn how you may greatly reduce fuel bills, be safe from fires, and have a cleaner home.

When you order your winter supply of fuel be sure to insist upon having "QUICK FIRE COKE" and none other. The registered name, "QUICK FIRE COKE" is more than a mere trade mark. It is a guarantee of efficiency, quality and service. Only the very highest grades of Eastern bituminous coals, that are always tested for greatest heating values are used in the process.

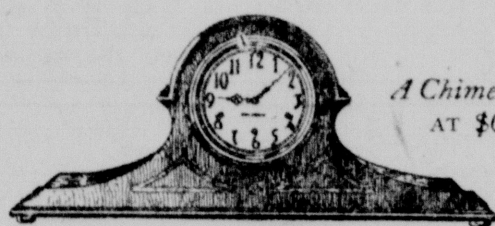

Thus "QUICK FIRE COKE" holds fire longer than ordinary coke, leaves very little ash, and burns with the least possible waste in smoke, soot or dust, to damage the house furnishings and interior decorations. Whether stored in bins or piled up out of doors, it does not deteriorate nor lose any of its heating value.

LENGLEN RAZZED BY BRITISH WHO "DETHRONE" HER

Turns to Helen Wills and D'Alvarez for new "Queen"

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Correspondent
London.—Suzanne Lenglen, woman champion tennis player of the world, has been toppled from her pedestal as the idol of British lovers of sport. And she did it all by herself at Wimbledon by committing two unforgivable sins:

The Queen of England came to see the Queen of Tennis play, was kept waiting for hours, and was disappointed.

Fifty thousand tennis-mad Britons paid high prices of admission to see Suzanne, only to be told she would not appear.

So she was not presented at court. The changes in public opinion is the swiftest in sports history. In former times Britons cheered Suzanne not only when she bowled over our American girls, but also when she whipped the best Britain could produce.

Boed at Courts
In this recent June week there were boos and hisses when it was announced she would not play. When she was beaten by two Americans in doubles, a storm of hurrahs for the Yankee women smote the air.

Already the British tennis fan, who must adore somebody, is looking around for a new idol. Two are in the running—Helen Wills and Seniors D'Alvarez.

The American girl, looking pale after her operation, attended Wimbledon as a spectator. Her pretty face, her modest demeanor, her girlish love of dancing endeared her to England. The manner in which she fought Suzanne in France won them. They affectionately refer to her as "little poker face."

The Spanish girl is also a warm favorite. She is very beautiful, has a winning way, can talk to you in five languages, and at 21 is not only a wonderful tennis player, but a good golfer, a champion skater, an expert horsewoman and a skillful billiards player.

The newspapers have given Suzanne the "razz", in a way our papers never did, even at the time of the famous Mallory incident. Suzanne several years ago, adopted the winter war cry of "I'll never play in England again because of the lies in their papers about me."

What Papers Say
But she always has come back. The papers this year have coined a word for her—"Suzannettes."

The Sunday Express says now: "Her tears, stampings and defiance are the comic opera of lawn tennis history. Her explanations afterwards are the soul of malice."

The conservative Morning Post wrote an editorial about her headed "A Spoilt Darling." It says:

"Mlle. Lenglen is the prima donna of tennis and prima donnas are notoriously privileged. But privilege to one should not be stretched to the point of prejudice to others or of injury to the game and to the traditions of sport and good manners. Mlle. Lenglen kept the Queen, the public and her opponents waiting an unconscionable time on Wednesday and was an hour late on Saturday."

The Daily Mail with equal bitterness, comments:

"To be indisposed is unfortunate, but it is not an excuse for a lack of sportsmanship."

The Star says:

"It would be inhuman to make her play when she is unfit to play, but if she were anyone but Suzanne she would either have to keep her match engagements or be scratched. That the programs should be changed about for her convenience is unfair."

ANOTHER BOXING SHOW FOR CHICAGO MULLEN PLANS

Will Be Held at White Sox Park Saturday July 24th

Chicago, July 14.—The boxing card for the next big fight show in Chicago was announced yesterday by Promoter Jim Mullen. The show will be held at the White Sox ball park Saturday afternoon, July 22, and will consist of four ten round bouts between some of the country's greatest fighters.

Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., considered just about the best bantam in the world today, will meet Tommy Ryan of McKeesport, Pa., in one of the tens at 118 pounds. Ryan and Taylor fought recently at Louisville and Taylor had the hardest kind of a time with the Pennsylvanian. The fight was held on the eve of the Kentucky Derby and the majority of the fans present thought Ryan won. Their return bout here should result in plenty of hard fighting.

Billy Petrolle of Fargo, N. D., who recently stopped Frankie Schaeffer in one round and who gave Sid Terris the toughest fight that young man ever had, will meet Johnny Adams of San Bernardino, Cal., in another ten rounder at 135 pounds. Adams is the coast lightweight champion and a real sensation. He fought Ace Hudkins, April 14 at the Olympic auditorium, Los Angeles, and won the decision at the end of ten of the most thrilling rounds of fighting ever seen in the west. Johnny also fought Mandell not long ago and received the short end of the decision although the papers seemed to think a draw would have been a fair verdict. Adams has beat Mushy Callahan four times and is rated as one of the greatest 135 pounders in the world today. He is under the management of Tom Jones, the man who handled Al Volga and Jess Willard.

Spud Myers of Pocatello, Idaho, will meet Billy Bertfield of Milwaukee in another ten at 140 pounds. Spud is a member of the famous Churchill stable and is a top notch fighter in every respect. He is a tearing-in type of battler and a dangerous puncher at all times. Bertfield's abilities are too well known for comment. The Milwaukee youngster is rated as a dangerous man for any one and can hit with deadly force with either hand. This fight should be a thriller.

Jack McVey, sensational New York colored boy, will meet We'cott Langford in another ten. McVey is the boy who took the decision from Sailor Friedman recently and who beat Allentown Joe Gans when Gans outweighed him 20 pounds. The eastern colored boy is said to be an exact replica of Jack Johnson and experts down east say he is the greatest fighter in the world today, black or white at 145 pounds.

FOURNIER GETS THREE HOMERS IN TUESDAY'S GAME

But His Team Lost to Cardinals; Wilson Wins for Cubs

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jacques Fournier is quite a lively Brooklyn invalid. Weakened by an injury which had brought a long lay-off, he hit only three home runs against the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday in a game which Brooklyn lost 12-10. This tied the modern major league record. Johnny Butler, Brooklyn infielder, also created something of a record during the afternoon hitting his first homer as a major leaguer. Seven runs in the sixth gave St. Louis a winning margin.

Cincinnati outslugged Philadelphia to retain its four game margin over all comers winning by 10-7. Hack Wilson's home run in the sixth eventually gave the Chicago Cubs victory over Boston 2-1 as Heathcote scored ahead of him. It was the former Giant's thirteenth of the year, putting him in the lead in his circuit.

The Yankees' lead in the American League was cut to six games when they lost to Detroit 5-4 and the Athletics defeated St. Louis 3-2.

Three triples and four doubles came from Washington bats in the champion's 13-9 verdict over Chicago. McNeely had a double and four singles for a perfect day at bat.

The Red Sox could get only four hits off Karr of Cleveland and went down 6-1.

DELANEY TO GET BIG CHANCE FOR CLASS HONORS

Hard Fight With Paul Berlenbach Expected Tomorrow

New York, July 14.—(AP)—Jack Delaney, Canadian Frenchman from Bridgeport, Conn., regarded in many quarters as the "uncrowned champion" of the light heavyweights, tomorrow night will test his ability to wear the crown.

Paul Berlenbach, former wrestler who gained the title of "Astoria Assassin" after two dozen straight knockouts a year and a half ago, only to be stopped by this same Delaney in four rounds, will be the defender. Berlenbach was not the light heavyweight champion when Delaney knocked him out but since gaining the title has recorded a 15 round decision over the marvel from Connecticut whose real name is Chapdelaine.

Each is a real fighter and a real fight is expected.

Berlenbach is expected to enter the ring at about the limit, 175 pounds while the challenger probably will scale about 172.

OHIO LEGION WINS UP-HILL BATTLE SUNDAY

Come From Behind to Defeat Sublette Tigers, 7 to 6

(Telegraph Special Service)

Ohio, Ill., July 14.—The Ohio Legion defeated the Sublette Tigers here Sunday in one of the hardest fought battles of the season which was witnessed by one of the largest crowds in years. The Tigers grabbed the lead game as a member of the Browns, right from the start and when the fifth inning was complete, the game stood 5 to 1 in favor of Sublette with Koehler, who was pitching for the "Tigers," still going strong. In the last half of the sixth the fireworks started hustling out two hits against the Senators, went to the top of the batting line to all corners of the lot and of the American League with an average of 374 for 55 games and 326 times Legion had scampered six markers at bat in which he clouted 122 blows.

across the plate, which gave them a total of seven, which was all that was needed to win. The Tigers scored one in the seventh which gave them six and that was the way the game finished when the last out was made. Truesdale who was on the mound for Ohio was hit freely in the early innings, but kept getting better as the game advanced. He allowed 10 hits, walked 2 and struck out 10. Koehler allowed 10 hits, walked 3 and struck out 2. Schaeffer featured for Ohio at bat with two triples driving in three runs and scoring twice himself. Fletcher, an ex-Three Eye league umpire was calling them from behind the plate and there was no protesting of his decisions.

Sidelights

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bing Miller of the Athletics got some consolation in playing his first game as a member of the Browns, against his old teammates, scoring the only two runs made by his club. Bing also played fine ball in the field.

Bib Falk of the White Sox, in half of the sixth the fireworks started hustling out two hits against the Senators, went to the top of the batting line to all corners of the lot and of the American League with an average of 374 for 55 games and 326 times Legion had scampered six markers at bat in which he clouted 122 blows.

Babe Ruth has the same percentage, but played in 81 games only.

Everett Scott, former White Sox, who has been playing high class ball for the Reds since joining them, twisted his ankle when he singled in the fourth inning and had to retire. The injury is not believed serious.

The Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Browns are staging a close race to reach the century mark in double plays. The Cubs have executed 94 twin killings while the Browns have turned in 92.

A Surprise for Mrs. Spurling

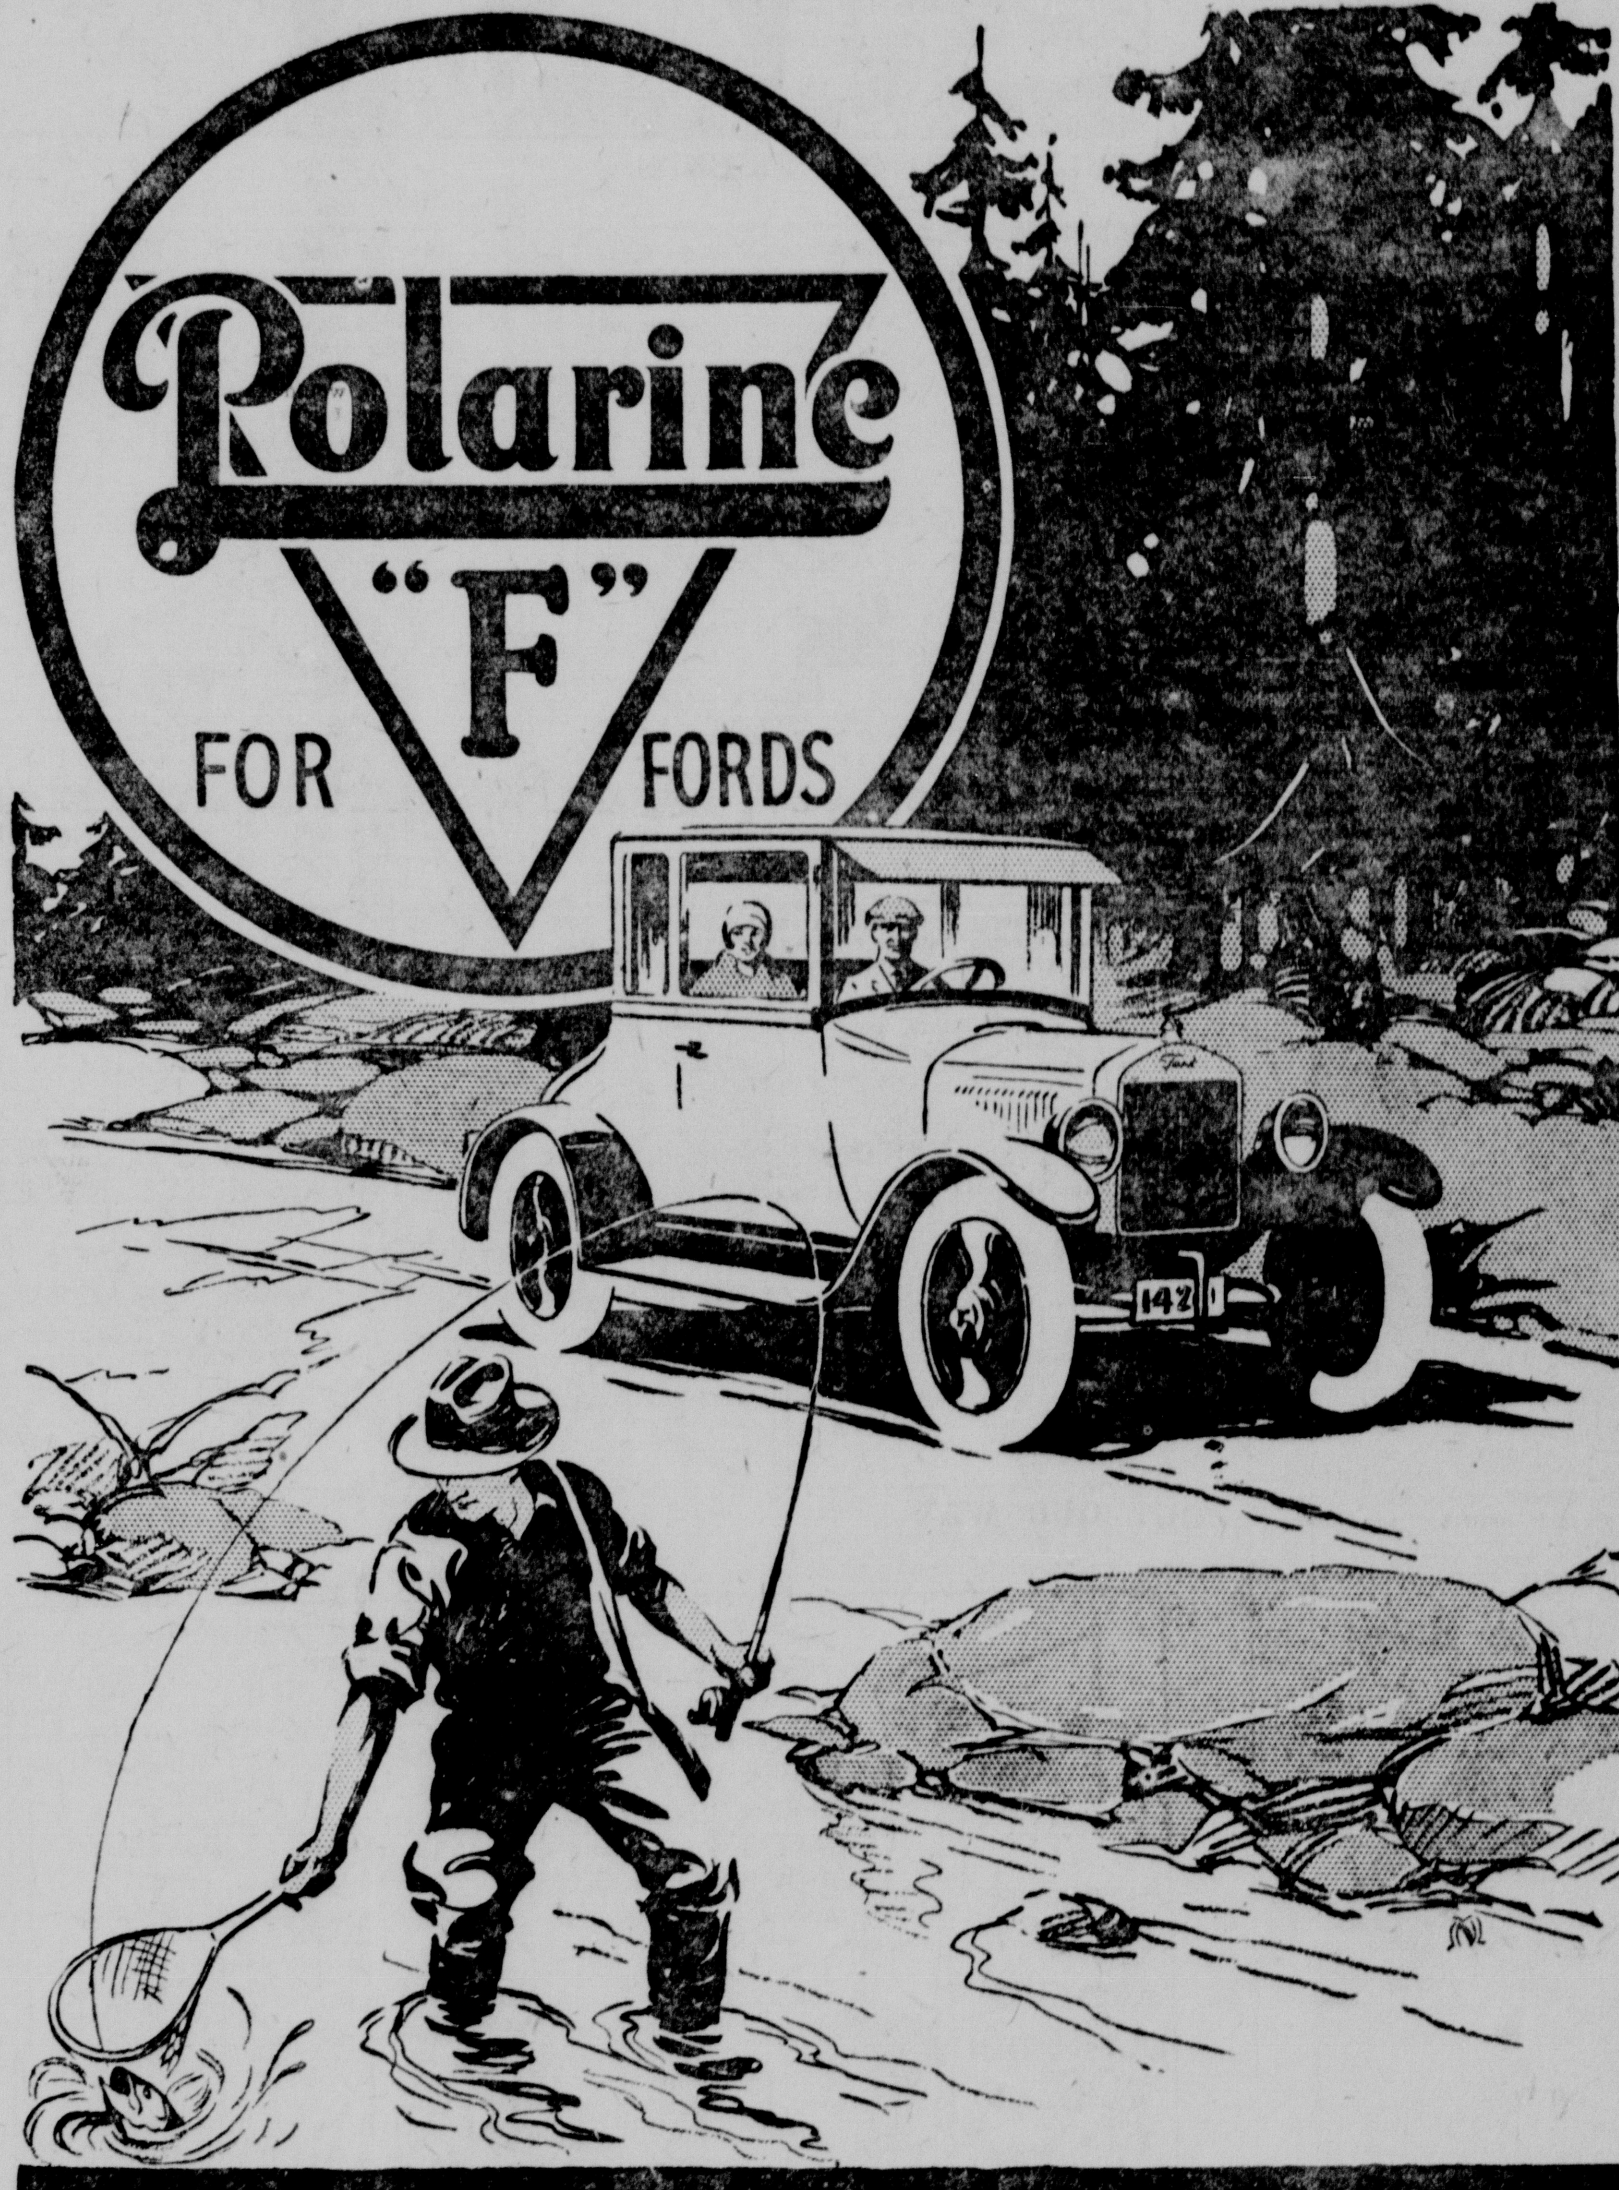

So changed were the floors that Mrs. Spurling, back from a week's visit to the city, could hardly believe it was her own house. Jim had had Frank Lovejoy, the painter, get busy with Acme Quality Floor Paint and Varnish. The floors were refinished and beautified. In fact, all the woodwork smiled a welcome. NEIGHBORS' WIVES

ERNEST LYNN, author of THE YELLOW STUB

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN and FAY MILBURN buy a home when their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract. Among their acquaintances are—

NOEL and VERA BOYD, whose marriage is strictly "modern."

PAT and MARIAN FORBES, who have three children and whose domestic life is unhappy because of Pat's roving tendencies.

John was fascinated on meeting NELL ORME, who, Forbes hints, is having trouble with her husband.

Fay took JUDITH, the baby, to visit her parents in Washington, and during her absence John "ran around" a good deal. When Fay returned gossip had retailed his actions and sharp quarrels followed, one of which drove John out "on a tear," and Fay threatened to leave him if he again went out with other women.

John finds that people are talking about him and NATHANIEL GRAHAM, his partner, charges his actions as damaging the firm's reputation. John later, by accident, meets Nell Orme at Vera Boyd's.

He resolves not to see her again, realizing she is carrying him off his feet, but he does, and the day comes when he takes her madly in his arms.

Fay learns of it and goes through with her threat to leave him. John closes the house and takes an apartment. MISS KNEISELY, his firm's secretary, resigns and John later learns she has gone with a rival agency. Nat Graham comes back off a vacation and again quarrels with John about the firm's damaged reputation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER LI

NAT GRAHAM was not long in hiring a young woman to take the place of the useful Miss Kniesley. But after a week John Milburn decided she'd never do—at least she'd never approach the standard set by her predecessor.

It seemed to John that Graham had been decidedly careless about hiring her. He had spent very little time interviewing applicants; had virtually taken the first one that came along.

Things simply couldn't go on this way much longer, he told himself. Either he and Nat would have to reach some sort of understanding—which would mean, of course, that Nat would have to drop his critical attitude—or a break was a foregone certainty.

Never once, during the year that had witnessed this gradually widening breach, had he ever questioned Graham's ability, his willingness to work or his integrity.

It was only the man's personality—cold, forbidding, eternally revolving around the passionless business of chasing the dollar. It had often occurred to him that he would have welcomed some sign in Nat of not being all that he should be—some human weakness, some little fault.

But hang it, the man never drank, he never touched tobacco, he refused to look at a woman, he rarely—in his moments of greatest annoyance—said anything stronger than "damn."

The very fact that he was possessed, apparently, of no vices what ever, that his armor of smug virtue seemingly was puncture-proof, served only to anger John all the more.

Consequently he was more than surprised—he was literally shocked—when he discovered some evidence that, after all, Nat might not be playing exactly square with him.

An errand one day carried him, along about lunch time, to a part of the downtown section that he rarely ever visited. Back again on the street, he realized that he was

However, the thing was not to be dismissed so lightly. Perhaps if Miss Kniesley's actions hadn't been so strange he would have thought little of it, but it was hard to imagine Graham's being on friendly terms with a firm that would take an almost indispensable employee away from them.

And persistently the thing bobbed up to worry him. Was Nat capable of throwing him overboard?

He was hearing once a week from Fay, who considered it her duty to report on Judith. Reading one of these notes one day, he suddenly paused, laid the letter down and, out of a mental fog that had blurred his thinking ever since Fay had left him, came to the shocking realization that the thing was final. Fay had written that she had the week before, consulted her lawyer.

Not until he read that line had he grasped the significance, the dread finality of it.

Rather had he unconsciously sought to evade a full realization of what it meant. And somehow the fact that she could find it in her to write to him had softened the blow and raised in him the hope that perhaps, after all, Fay given time enough, might reconsider.

But here she was, consulting her lawyer. . . . Divorce. . . . Now he thought in an agony of spirit, could she write so cold-bloodedly of her intention?

Did this dreadful thing really have to happen to him?

Was there no way of bringing about a reconciliation?

He realized now, with a sudden nip at his heart, that he loved Fay more dearly than anything in the world—that life without her would be a flat, tasteless thing, an unsatisfying hunger.

Divorce. . . . People, after all, did quit when they discovered they had made a bad bargain.

There was Clara Wayne. She had obtained a divorce and no one had tried to dissuade her—everyone had pitied her. And were people aligning themselves on the side of Fay?

How he thought in an agony of spirit, could she write so cold-bloodedly of her intention?

Vera Lloyd had called him up several times since his last meeting with Nell Orme, but he kept evading her—he could find no interest now in other women, not with this insatiable longing for Fay and Judith filling him. The thought that kept recurring to him time after time was that he was being punished pretty badly, and he cursed himself for having missed his big chance.

Carter was the author of the "Fast Mail," and nearly a hundred other thrillers that were played in the "ten, twenty, thirty" houses of years ago.

His ingenuity in placing on the stage such dramatic scenes as train wrecks, ship wrecks, tornadoes, was unsurpassed before the moving picture came to provide greater realism in such disasters. He was born April 14, 1865 in Rochester.
